Go First lines up chartered services in revival bid

ROHIT VAID New Delhi, May 18

THE COMMERCIAL OPERA-TIONS of Go First still hangs in uncertainty with the carrier suspending its services till May 26. Sources said that while there's no clarity on restarting commercial operations, chartered services, which require a minimum of 4-8 aircraft, may get started once the interim resolution professional draws up a revival plan.

Though the airline is in insolvency and under moratorium, any clarity on restarting the commercial operations will come only after the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal pronounces an order on the petition of three of its lessors, who have objected to the company's plea for voluntary bankruptcy. The appellate tribunal is scheduled to pass its order on May 22

Byju's Alpha sued by loan agent for $1.2 bn

STEVEN CHURCH May 18

ONE OF INDIA'S hottest tech companies, Byju's Alpha, was sued by an agent for lenders in connection with a term loan of $1.2 billion after months of negotiations between creditors and the education technology firm.

The lawsuit was filed by Glas Trust Company and investor Timothy R Pohl against Byju's Alpha, Tangible Play and Riju Ravindran. The two companies being sued are units of Think and Learn Private, the edtech empire founded by Byju Raveendran. Ravindran is a director of Think and Learn, according to a regulatory filing.

It's the latest setback for the once high-flying startup. Byiu's had been scrambling to appease creditors on the restructuring of a $1.2 billion term loan before an antimoney laundering probe kicked off in April. A judge in Wilmington, Delaware — where the lawsuit was filed earlier this month scheduled a hearing by telephone Thursday to decide whether the case should be expedited. Delaware Chancery Court Judge Morgan Zurn denied Ravindran's and Byju's request to close Thursday's hearing to the public. Byju's started negotiating its credit agreement after it breached investor protections on the debt by missing a deadline to disclose annual financial results. Earlier this year, lenders pushed back against a company proposal to rework its debt by increasing the interest rate on the $1.2 billion term loan due 2026. A steering committee of lenders opposed the plan, suggesting that the company instead repay part of the loan and lock up cash, Bloomberg News reported in February.
